

Presentation Title

Fire Safety Concerns of the National Transportation Safety Board

Abstract

The subject of aviation fire safety is an important concern of the National Transportation Safety Board. This presentation will focus on critical fire safety issues that the Safety Board has addressed through its accident investigations and safety studies. Subjects include issues regarding in-flight fires involving avionics, electronics, and electrical wiring in inaccessible areas; in-flight fire fighting, flight crew response, and training; and fuel tank flammability. In these areas, the safety recommendations issued and subjects identified for further research will also be discussed.