

Lisa Fitzsimons

Lisa Fitzsimons is a 'Senior Inspector of Air Accidents (Engineering)' at the UK Air Accidents Investigation Branch (AAIB). Since joining the AAIB in 2010 Lisa has been involved in investigating accidents and serious incidents to a wide range of commercial air transport aircraft and helicopters as well as general aviation aircraft, gliders and hot air balloons. She was the Lead Engineer and Deputy Investigator in Charge for the B787 ELT Battery fire investigation.

Prior to working at the AAIB, Lisa worked as an undergraduate engineer at British Airways, as a Structures Engineer at Airbus UK and most recently as an Air Safety Investigator at Virgin Atlantic Airways.

Lisa holds a first class honours degree in Aeronautical Engineering from Queens University Belfast and an MSc in Air Transport from Cranfield University. She is a Chartered Engineer, a member of the Royal Aeronautical Society and the International Society of Air Safety Investigators and an Associate Member of the European Association of Aviation Psychologists.