

Donovan Koch is an Air Safety Engineer for Embraer - São José dos Campos. He graduated from Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University in Aerospace Engineering in 1997. He is the accident investigator coordinator at Embraer Air Safety Department and has participated in all accidents involving Embraer aircraft in the past 5 years. Donovan teaches Survival Aspects at the Brazilian Air Force Accident Investigators Course and has attended the NTSB Survival Aspects Course in Washington, DC.