

Thermochemical Flammability Model for Thin Materials

J. G. Quintiere and M. Kim, University of Maryland

The ignition and burning rate under radiant heating is predicted for a thin nylon-clay nanocomposite. TGA and DSC measurements were used to develop the decomposition kinetics and the the thermodynamics of heating and decomposition.