

Dr. Hae Chang Gea is Professor of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering at Rutgers University. He received his Ph.D from The University of Michigan in 1993. He is an Associate Editor of the Journal of Structural and Multidisciplinary Optimization, and a Board Member of the International Journal of Reliability and Safety. His work has been awarded the best technical paper twice in the ASME Design Automation Conference. His current research focuses on Design Optimization with Uncertainty.