

William Wilkening
Director, Office of Hazardous Materials
Federal Aviation Administration

Recipient of a Bachelor's Degree in Criminal Justice and formerly served as a hazardous materials inspector for the U.S. Department of Transportation's, Research and Special Programs Administration.

In 1989, I was appointed as the Federal Aviation Administration's Program Manager for air cargo and airmail security. I was primarily responsible to draft FAA's revision of the indirect air carrier security program for air freight forwarders.

In May of 1998 I was appointed as the Federal Aviation Administration's Manager for Dangerous Goods and Cargo Security. In 2003 the Cargo Security Program was formally transferred to the new Transportation Security Administration.

Since then I have served as the Director of FAA's Office of Hazardous Materials Enforcement.
