

Allan Abramowitz:

Allan is the Research Project Manager for the FAA's Crashworthiness program. Allan has worked at the FAA Technical Center in Atlantic City, NJ, USA for 30 years and has conducted research in numerous aviation related areas such as ground based windshear alert and aircraft fire safety. He has a Bachelors of Science degree from Pratt Institute and a Masters in Aviation Science from Embry Riddle Aeronautical University. In addition Allan holds a private pilot license with single-engine, multi-engine, and instrument ratings.