

David Moorcroft is a Research Engineer for the FAA Civil Aerospace Medical Institute's Biodynamics Research Team. He has authored several papers concerning the use of computational methods for occupant safety. He is also a member of the ASME Standards Committee on Verification and Validation in Computational Solid Mechanics.

Mr. Moorcroft holds a Masters degree in Engineering Mechanics from Virginia Tech.