

Amanda Taylor is a Research Engineer for the FAA Civil Aerospace Medical Institute's Biodynamics Research Team. She has been involved with the development of research programs relating to child ATDs in dynamic testing of aviation specific child restraints.

Mrs. Taylor holds a degree in Biomedical Engineering from the University of Central Oklahoma.