

Boeing Battery Task Group: Mitigating the Risk of Carrying Lithium Batteries as Cargo

Doug Ferguson
Boeing Commercial Aircraft
Long Beach, CA

The fire worthiness standards for cargo compartments were developed prior to shipments of lithium batteries becoming widespread. Concern about cargo fires involving lithium batteries led Boeing to create a Battery Task Group. Boeing is engaged in identifying, defining and mitigating the hazards involved in carrying lithium batteries as cargo.