

Mr. Matthew Fulmer

Biography

Matthew Fulmer graduated from Rutgers University in 2012 with bachelors in Civil Engineering. He previously worked for the Federal Aviation Administration as a Fire Safety Engineer working on heat release rate calculations in the OSU under Richard Lyon. Matthew previously also worked with the National Institute of Standards and Technology. While at NIST, Matthew helped develop new measures to ensure the safety of scientist testing full scale building fires. Matthew currently works for the Philadelphia Water Department.