

Dr. N. Albert Moussa

He is the Founder and Technical Director of BlazeTech Corp. in Cambridge, MA, a company that specializes in safety, environment and energy. He specializes in fire and explosion working particularly for the aircraft and chemical industries. He got his B.S. from Stanford University and his MS and PhD from MIT. He has published widely including one book. His forewarning about fuel tank vulnerabilities prior to the TWA 800 and Concorde disasters has gained him notoriety in the US and international media. He teaches an annual professional course on Aircraft Fire Hazards, Protection and Investigation. He has received many awards, including the William Lockwood Memorial Lecture Award, Engineer of the Year by the NE- AIAA Section, AIAA Distinguished Lecturer, Best Papers by SAE and ASEI, and several ASME citations. He served on national committees and was Associate Editor of an ASME Journal.